

If you think a partially exposed boob is outrageous, then where is the explosive reaction to Pat Robertson's comments this morning? If I had children, I would rather they see some partial nudity than have to explain to them what an 'assassination' is. Listening to a so called man of God call for murder is one of the most disgusting things I've ever heard on television. He should be taken off the air.